“ Here's a memory of Brad I'll never forget: Brad was in my class in 6th grade, and the students were working quietly on something when suddenly Brad asked, "Mr. Yates, have you ever fought in a war?" I replied, "No, Brad, I haven't," then I thought of a better response. "Brad, actually for the last several years, I've been fighting a war against ignorance." I was pretty proud of myself for coming up with that, but Brad, without missing a beat, came back politely with this: "Yours or ours?" He was a smart kid with an A+ personality, and the world will be a little less bright without him.
